The pallbearers were nephews of the deceased, Alex. A. Russell of this city, Charles M. Russell of Milwaukee, Charles A. Russell of Rutland, Shirley B. Tarrant of Durand, Wis.

Mrs. Mary Bingham.
Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Bingham were held yesterday afternoon from the home of Floyd Hurd, 139 Jefferson avenue, Rev. Frank J. Bringham of the Methodist church conducted the services, and burial was made at Oak Hill cemetery. The pallbearers were R. J. Halteman, R. R. Powell, C. V. Kirsch, Wm. Duthie, W. H. Blair, Peter Jamison.

Jessie Grace Dickerson.
Jessie Grace Dickerson, who died Nov. 21st, was born in the town of Janesville. She has lived all her life in the town of Fulton with the exception of three years of her married life which was spent in Edgerton. She leaves to mourn her death one daughter, Louise, her mother and two brothers, Frank and Leonard Grace, besides many friends. Funeral services were held at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. H. Grace, Wednesday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. Brandt of Edgerton. A large number of people gathered to pay respect to her memory. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful. Interment took place at Fasset cemetery.

BAD MAN IN EMBRYO WITH JITNEY PISTOL IS MEET AT STATION

First Ward Gangster of Youthful Age Won't Make Companions Dance any More With Gun.

George Schultz and his brother, Harry, youths about 15 and 17, the sons of Ernest Schultz, a carpenter, living at 316 North Chatham street, have been presiding over a reign of terror in their section of the first ward for some time. Wednesday the periodical trouble precipitated by the youngsters reached its climax. The turning point gradually recognized to meekness over Turkey day. This morning at the police station the erstwhile haughty demeanor of the boys was a minus quantity.
George Schultz like all youths of his age attracted by the glitter of revolvers and guns in show windows. He procured a pistol which at the police station brought a laugh because of the boy's proportions, but which served to make him a terror in his neighborhood. It was a glittering little thing of 22 caliber, but Wednesday when George began shooting in the street, the police station officers of a youth named Gower, it appeared as large as a forty-two centimeter cannon to the victim. Gower told his mother and she told the police. Incidentally young Schultz was summoned to the station this morning. He handed the weapon over to the chief. His brother waited outside but was called into the office while Chapman delivered his lecture. He finally decided not to humiliate the youngsters to the extent of bringing them before Judge Maxfield and after a scathing talk let them go.
It appears that the boys had the gun loaded with blanks and after chasing several Grant school pupils, caught young Gower and threatened and shot towards his feet. The other boys were late for school and only left their homes when the Schultz's had disappeared. Mrs. Schultz went to the police station and the incident is related to have said "Well, I don't see why those boys were afraid. There were only blanks in the gun, you know. And they could not hurt anybody so way."

TRAINMEN'S DANCE DRAWS HUGE CROWD

Attendance Exceeds That of Last Year.—Decorations and Music Furnish Pleasing Evenings.

Over two hundred and twenty-five couples attended the thirtieth annual ball of the railroad trainmen of Janesville, held at the Assembly Hall, Thanksgiving eve at Assembly Hall. As in former years members of Rock River Lodge B. of E. T. did themselves in the evening. Dancing began at 8 o'clock and continued until 3 a. m. with the exception of the short intermission for supper at midnight.
Hatch's orchestra furnished the music, an excellent program of popular numbers. Waiters and two-steps prevailed most, with occasional numbers for those who craved for the newer steps. The older dancers were not forgotten by the committee and the Old Folks' quadrille brought out a number of couples who remember the first party given by the railroad men three decades ago.
As in former years the hall was profusely decorated. Long streamers of pink and white hung with paper roses formed the huge canopy under which the merry throng swayed and whirled to the delight of the on-lookers.
Members of the committee in charge are to be congratulated upon the success of their endeavors. The various committees were: Arrangements, J. J. Dulin, Dan P. Davey and W. R. Pritchard; Joseph S. Dempsey, L. V. Michael, Charles Gregory and J. J. Dulin; Jr., the reception committee; Thomas Murphy, chief of floor managers, was assisted by Fred J. Dixon, George Barry, L. D. Horn, James McGuire, M. F. Carroll, M. F. Dulin, John G. Joerg and Harry M. Howland.

Story Hour: There will be a Thanksgiving story hour Saturday morning at ten-thirty at the public library.

WINDOW BROKEN BY STONE PROPELLED THROUGH AIR BY PASSING AUTOMOBILE

A fair sized stone carried down East Milwaukee street hill last night by the overflow water in the gutter due to the heavy rain, the slippery street and an automobile with smooth tires, in effect, was the cause of the breaking of a 7x9 plate glass window in the Myers Hotel. Proprietor Wild thought for awhile that some person had fired a bullet through the window. He called the police station and an officer made a hurried trip to the corner. Investigation found a clean hole in the glass. It was established that the automobile had run over the stone on the Milwaukee street side, that the stone had shot out from beneath the outer edge of the tire and striking and causing the hole in the window.

SPORTS

BIG GAMES CLOSE EVENTFUL SEASON ON THE GRIDIRON

Final Ready for Present Season as Cornell Trims Pennsylvania.

Cornell's nipping Pennsylvania, 24 to 9, Notre Dame's fooling the University of Texas with shifts and fake attacks and winning 38 to 7, the 6 to 0 of Syracuse and Montana, and a world of other Thanksgiving day games virtually rang down the curtain on one of the most peculiar football seasons of a decade.

Cornell, by virtue of her defeat of Pennsylvania, lays claim to the title of the east. Penn led 9 to 7 at the third quarter, but with the Indians fighting desperately to turn the tide of victory, Pennsylvania, the ping pong ball of the east during the season, slumped by the criticism of two months' play and poor showing, dashed forth like a demon in the second period, swept Cornell off its feet and took the lead. Then Cornell, driven to the wall, showed that the gigantic effort it smashed Pennsylvania's defense and battered its way to victory by way of two more touchdowns and a field goal.

Deceptive shift formations and fake runs were responsible for the defeat of Texas by the Indians at the Notre Dame. Bergmann, Coffey, Pachman and Phelan were the individual stars of the visitors, the first providing the most spectacular feature of the day when he ran sixty yards for a touchdown.

The University of Oklahoma eleven completed an all victory season by defeating the Oklahoma A. and M. eleven 27 to 7. Pittsburgh had little trouble in defeating Penn State 20 to 0, the much touted state college failing to put up much of a game in any respect against the smoke city eleven. Ripon, champions of Wisconsin, journeyed to Richmond, Ill., and easily beat the local school 20 to 0. The Badger team was heavy and out weighed their opponents several pounds per man, perhaps the most telling showing of the day in the middle west was that of Marquette against St. Thomas of St. Paul. The northerners have been going strong all season, but yesterday the Milwaukee school broke long enough to keep them scoreless, although they were unable to get a score across themselves. Locally, followers of the two teams were expecting the northerners to win by at least fifty points, but the unexpected showing has given fans something to marvel at.

Detroit Central High lays claim to the middle west honors due to its butting Oak Park, Chicago, 25 to 0. The Chicago team was surely battered, four players being removed from the game before the opening half had ended. Detroit expects to play in New York City Dec. 4 for the national championship.

Keewatin Academy's first defeat in four years occurred yesterday at Chillicothe, when the much feared Guyon, former Erie Indian and All-American star, was unable to lead his team to victory, and lost 13 to 7 to De Paul. Expectations were that Keewatin would win by four touchdowns before the game.

The Dubuque German College defeated Dubuque College 13 to 7. There was more or less interest here in this game because of the spectacular play of three Dubuque boys during the season with the defeated school. Grace Dalton, Joe Ryan and Ray McCaffery have been mainstays of the school expected to defeat the Germans alone, according to reports coming from Dubuque. Ryan's drop kick two weeks ago from the fifty-five yard line was the longest successful boot made by a prep school player during the season. McCaffery, with a splintered shoulder, was unable to play yesterday.

Impossible to Do Justice to All Teams and Pick All-Star Aggregation.
Maybe Camp can do it in East.
(Special to the Gazette.)
New York, Nov. 26.—The football season of 1915, which was officially entered this week, will go down in gridiron history as the most weird ever foisted on a gasping public. Small colleges, from time immemorial, have been the mainstay of the collegiate world, turned with a vengeance that makes the well known work look like the Rock of Gibraltar. With the exception of Cornell and Pittsburg, the two now acknowledged peers of the Eastern division, not an Eastern team went through the season with a clean record. Starting with the Yale defeat by Virginia on October 2, 1915, which was an unexpected upset, drawn out and of unexpected length, W. and J. followed the Southerners and took a slap at the Blue. Then came Colgate with the same tale, and then little Brown, which had been licked by the old and tied by Trinity, took a parting kick at the bewildered Bulldog.

Cornell loped into Cambridge and lastly little Brown, which had been drawn out by the first time Harvard Haughton—the first time Harvard team had been defeated in three years. Princeton, with the best Tiger eleven of a decade, was defeated four times by the Yale aggregation.

The Army and Navy passed into the second division of football institutions by being licked by numerous small colleges. Lafayette came along and whipped Pennsylvania.

Out in the west old Fighting H. Yost has completed the most disastrous year of his long connection with the Wolverine institution. Michigan's Aggies, Syracuse, Cornell Savage in the west end, Keweenaw feared Yost machine.

In view of these events, football fanatics from Coast to Coast are waiting for the annual pun—an All-American eleven—with more than usual curiosity. The Michigan Aggies defeated Michigan. The Aggies were in turn licked by the Oregon Aggies, and they in their turn were whipped by Washington State.

Just how the experts, and particularly Walter Yale Camp, are going to select an eleven which represents America, is pretty hard to see. One man, or a dozen men, could not in a season view all the college teams in the United States. Keweenaw State, the Oregon Aggies and the Michigan Aggies certainly are to be considered.

The year has been the most weird in history. It is possible to pick an All-American team, an All-Conference team in the middle west, and an all-Western team for the coast contend- ing for an All-American team is not only impossible, but ludicrous. And this year wouldn't be a bad one to witness the burial of this annual joke.

GAZETTE FIVE WIN FROM BOSTWICKS
Yesterday at the Miller alleys the Gazette Printing company's bowling team won in a matched game with the Bostwick five. Mead rolled the highest score in the game, striking the 245 mark in the first event. Kueck of the printers' team rolled next high score by getting 209 pins in the second event. Line-ups:

Jim Savage is after Frank Moran. Jim once licked Moran in a six-round go. That was when Jim was managed by Danny Morgan. Moran dropped Savage in the first round, but Jim was prevented from quitting cold by Morgan, who waved a water bottle and threatened to bounce it off Savage's skull. Spurred on by the fear of this ever-threatening water bottle Savage gave Moran quite a lacing in the remaining five rounds.

First and Second Year Eleven Play Off Tie Game at Fair Grounds Wednesday Afternoon.

Wednesday afternoon the freshman and sophomore football teams clashed again on the gridiron and the struggle ended 2 to 0 in favor of the sophomores. The plucky little first year men again outplayed the sophomores, but on a punt which was received back on the freshmen's goal, Cassidy, a freshman, was downed before he could get over the line. This counted two points for the sophomores, which gave them the game.

Again Cassidy and Cassidy were the best ground gainers and tacklers for the freshmen eleven. Next week the sophomores and juniors will play for the championship of the school and this will end all football in the high school for this season. Lineups:

MORRIS MILLER

This is a tough season for football captains. Harris of Pennsylvania lost his place. McAuliffe of Dartmouth has been having a hard job holding on to his position. The Army has been displaced from time to time, and now comes word that "Smiling" Miles, the Navy leader, is likely to match the battle with the cadets from the side lines. Miles was hurt in the first period of the game with Colby last Saturday and Craig went in at quarterback. Craig was pretty much the whole works in the defeat of the Maine team, and this, coupled with the fact that Miles has not been going well, makes Craig almost a sure choice.

An offer of $12,000 has been made to Freddy Welsh for a twenty-round go with Johnny Dundee at New Haven, Conn.

Rube Oldring has a contract with the Athletics that has another year to run, and the report that he has "retired" from baseball and will henceforth devote his life to the cows and chickens on the farm can be discounted, according to authentic Philadelphia information.

The threat of the Feds to place a club on Manhattan Island may cause a change of program on the part of Messrs. Ruppert and Huston, owners of the New York Yankees, who were believed to be slated to build a new plant in the Queens. To do this would give the club a clear view of New York proper, for the Giants would be their only opponents. It is therefore not at all unlikely that the American league club will exercise one of its options and build a site on Manhattan Island, and thus be in a position to help give the Feds a real battle. It is not believed that the negotiations for the site in Queens have so far proceeded that Ruppert and Huston are tied up there, so that if it is considered feasible to

WHY THE BEST OF CHEWS IS "SPEAR HEAD"
Its Rich, Sweet, Mellow Flavor Has Been Famous for a Generation

MADE OF CHOICEST RED BURLEY

The secret of tobacco satisfaction is known only to the man who chews plug tobacco. The reason is that a good chew gets right next to your taste, while the leaf in plug tobacco is in a state of fresh, juicy richness that is not possible in any other form of tobacco. There's no tobacco in the world that can give you the hearty, wholesome flavor that you get from a delicious chew of Spear Head.

Spear Head is made exclusively of ripe, red Kentucky Burley—the most richly-flavored chewing tobacco that grows. Still more, only the very choicest red Burley leaf is used for Spear Head.

This choice leaf is selected with the most painstaking care, is stemmed by hand, is thoroughly washed free of all foreign matter, and is pressed into Spear Head plugs so slowly that not a drop of juice or an atom of the natural flavor escapes.

Try Spear Head and you'll get a sweet, mellow, luscious, satisfying chew that cannot be obtained in any other tobacco. Buy a 5c or 10c cut to-day.

James McClelland has sold his farm in Spring Grove to Juda party by the name of Wendler.

Fifteen school friends gave Walter Douglas a surprise party Tuesday evening at the home. There were games and dainty refreshments and all had a delightful time.

The report says, in part:
"There is a consensus of opinion among the superintendents of all divisions that drunkenness generally, and among women in particular, has decreased."

"A marked diminution in the number of women and children standing outside public houses drinking has been noticed, and in many districts the practice has ceased altogether."

"Police have invariably found fewer people on licensed premises and a tendency to make shorter stays has been observed."

"Practically no breaches of order have occurred, and licensees and their servants have shown at all times their willingness to assist the police."

GOLF CLUB ENJOYS DELIGHTFUL DANCE

On Thanksgiving night the annual dance of the Janesville Golf Club was held at the Assembly hall. The Milwaukee Country Club sextette furnished the music for the evening and a hundred and fifty dancers enjoyed themselves until the wee small hours this morning. During the evening a delicious buffet luncheon was served but the contingent expected from Beloit failed to arrive owing to the storm. It was a most charming party and reflected much credit on the house committee of the club. The decorations were the same used by the trainmen's dance on the night before and were most elaborate.

Janesville MEAT HOUSE

Cash Prices Delivered Anywhere

If you do not pay cash, we charge the regular retail prices.

This is the best young healthy beef that money can buy, and if it was not for one of the largest packing plants in making us ridiculously low prices on these cattle, we could not sell this meat for less than double the price. The wholesale market on this beef is far above what we are retailing this meat for.

If people were more educated in the meat line, they would be more particular about what they eat than what they wear.

Do you know that meat is like everything else? There are different grades of it. Meat has four grades.

Don't think that your butcher has been robbing if he has charged you higher prices, for he has been handling the No. 1 meat. You know it would be impossible for him to sell it at what No. 4 stuff is worth, for there is a difference on some of these cuts of meat amounting to as much as 17c per pound on the wholesale market.

Next week I will explain to you the different grades of meat, what they are, what the live and dressed wholesale prices are, how the stuff is handled, print exact duplicates of bills of sale, on cattle, hogs, sheep and goats; show you how much the government stamp on meat protects you. And you will be a whole lot wiser if not greatly surprised. I am not doing this to protect my own interest alone, for I should worry about the meat business. I have enough other interests to make me a good living. But we have four or five butchers running shops who are hard working men with families paying their help good wages, paying taxes and far from being rich, for they have been giving you the very best meat that money could buy, and you could depend that every bit you got was from strictly healthy animals.

THESE BUTCHERS HAVE BEEN IN BUSINESS FOR YEARS JUST MAKING A LIVING AND GETTING BY.

IF THEY HAVE TO GO THROUGH SIX MONTHS OF THIS COMPETITION IT WILL BUST THEM.

I WOULD RATHER SOME OF MY PEOPLE WOULD PATRONIZE THESE LOCAL MARKETS FOR MY SHOP HAS MORE BUSINESS THAN IT CAN HANDLE.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET ALL THE MEAT OUT. LAST WEEK WE HAD THIRTY HEAD OF CATTLE AND OUR NORMAL BUSINESS IS ABOUT EIGHT HEAD OF CATTLE A WEEK. WE HAVE A LARGER FORCE THAN BEFORE AND OUR STORE IS NOT LARGE ENOUGH TO HANDLE THE BUSINESS.

Twenty-five years ago the common council levied a tax of $2,500 to run the city that year. At the last meeting of the city council the tax levy for the ensuing year was $17,717.10. This is quite a difference when you consider the luxuries we enjoy as compared with twenty-five years ago, you

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

Says Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast Washes Poinsons From System.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

As soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.—Advertisement.

WHEN PEACE COMES JAPAN WILL BE ON HAND FOR BOOTY

Japan Expects to be Fully Represented at the Peace Conference to Have Her Say.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Tokio, Nov. 26.—That Japan expects to be fully represented at the peace conference following the international war to discuss questions relating to Europe as well as to the Orient was set forth by Premier Gouno Okuma in speeches made this week to members of Parliament and members of political parties. The premier is anxious to avoid needless discussion of the government's foreign policy during the coming session of the Diet which many people believe promises to be turbulent. He has been frankly talking over national matters both with political friends and with enemies, taking them into his confidence as far as possible, and listening to suggestions from all.

No man can dare prophesy how long the war will last, said Gouno Okuma, "but, according to reliable information at hand, it is within the bounds of possibility that peace may be restored earlier than is generally believed." He continued:

"Japan has not only reduced Tsingtao, the colonial outpost of Germany in the Orient, but has maintained the safety of marine traffic in the Pacific and Indian Oceans as far as Canto and New Zealand in the Pacific and Singapore in the Indian Ocean. All this is done at heavy sacrifice. While this country has done much towards the cause of the Entente side. However, all these efforts have been appreciated by the powers, and Japan is entitled to full representation at the peace conference." The premier added his hope that Japan would participate not only in connection with oriental affairs but also in connection with the affairs of Europe.

"In Europe," went on the premier, "Japan has helped Russia. Russia is trusting Japan and she feels safe in sending her troops and war provisions from Siberia without fear that the Russian Far Eastern possessions will be attacked by any nation. This is indirect support given by Japan, which should be appreciated by Russia. We have rendered services as if we were Russia's ally. Therefore it is Japan's right to have a voice in the European peace conference."

The statesman remarked that there was only one obstacle in the way of Japanese participation and that was the race prejudice of the Japanese nations against the Japanese. He urged greater efforts and enlightened investigation with the object of removing these prejudices.

Referring to the situation in China, Count Okuma said: "The movement now under way in that country has a great bearing not only on Japan but upon other countries as well. England's interests in China, mostly commercial, will be affected. Not less will be the probable effect upon the interests of the United States in China. However, on account of the war there is little chance that the powers will interfere. Japan with her great interests in China must be especially careful in her attitude.

The premier alluded to the liberty of discussion of diplomatic affairs in Japan, but he expressed the hope that at this time people would be careful and keep in mind the permanent interests of the nation. He wanted politicians to rise above considerations of party and present a united front. "The government," he concluded, "will take care of the interests of Japan in connection with the present war."

18 POUNDS OF BLOOD

Is the average quantity in a healthy adult, but it is the quality of the blood that determines our strength to resist sickness. With weak blood we find cold hands and chilly feet; in children an aversion to study, and in adults rheumatic tendencies.

In changing seasons get abundant fresh air and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals, because Scott's Emulsion is a rich blood-food that will increase both quantity and quality of the blood while it warms the body and helps carry off the impurities.

When multitudes of people are today taking Scott's Emulsion to avert winter sickness, and are giving it to their children, it is careless to neglect its benefits. Look out for substitutes.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. DA. LEONARD

"Excuse me, Mr. Jaynes, may I have a private word with you?" Tyler stood in the office door with a bunch of papers in his hand.

"Come in, Tyler." What can I do for you? Jaynes wheeled around on his office chair and waved his hand at a seat. Tyler seated himself and spread his papers out on the table. "Look here! There is a cash shortage of three hundred dollars, he blurted, without any beating about the bush. Jaynes gave a low whistle and seized the papers and began examining them. "What's your theory?" he began, fixing a keen look on Tyler's face.

"It is a very serious matter to mention anyone's name in connection with such a thing, but it seems reasonable to suppose that it must be someone who knows the office situation," Jaynes nodded. "You know how hard up Suter has been all the fall."

"That has nothing to do with it," interrupted Jaynes. "A man may be hard pressed and honest. Suter seems to be making a great effort to pay his honest debts."

"Oh, certainly, and I am not making any accusation, of course. I merely wished to say that I heard him say he would sell his suit for three hundred dollars. Then, too, I saw his wife come to the office in a very expensive silk dress a few weeks ago, just before she was taken sick, in fact."

Jaynes frowned. "I do not like that. I thought they were living in the most careful way to get square with the world."

"Of course his wife's sickness has heaped up expense heavier than ever," ejaculated the cashier.

Jaynes drummed on the table with his fingers.

"Have you gone over the books to see if they have been tampered with?" Jaynes rose to his feet and began looking in the room.

"It would take an expert to tell that for a certainty, but I found two or three suspicious places."

Jaynes opened the office door and called:

"Send Suter to me at once, will you?" and resumed his march up and down the office.

Nothing more was said till the door opened and Suter stepped in.

"You wished to speak with me?" he asked looking from one to the other.

"Yes; sit down," Jaynes motioned to a chair.

"I have a very painful matter to take up with you, Mr. Suter. Mr. Tyler has just informed me that there is a shortage of three hundred dollars in the accounts. Jaynes was watching Suter very closely and he noticed that he turned very pale.

"Of course there are only yourself and Tyler here who have the safe combination. That fact taken in connection with the knowledge of your debts makes me feel that I must go into this case very thoroughly."

The room was swimming before John's eyes. Jaynes's voice seemed to be coming from a long distance. Suddenly it ceased and he realized that he was expected to say something in his own defense.

"Mr. Jaynes," he began. His voice sounded as if it came from another part of the room. "I know nothing of this. My books are all right. I am not in the least connected with it."

"If you have taken this money because of your financial straits, it will be by far the wisest cause to confess all and plead for mercy. In that case I should not prosecute."

Jaynes's voice was low and kind. "Jaynes, I repeat. I know nothing of this matter." Suter rose and left the room.

Julienne Soup—Shred two onions and fry brown in a half spoon of butter, add a little mace, salt and pepper, then a plentiful of so of stock, rub a tablespoonful of butter with the onions; strain through a fine sieve, then add more stock as desired; cut turnips, carrots and celery in fillets; add a few green peas; tender in a little water, and add both water and vegetables to the soup. If wished, the flour can be left out and it will make a clear, light colored soup. In that case, the onions should be cut in fillets and boiled with the vegetables.

Chopped Ritters—Twelve clams chopped or not one pint milk, three eggs, add liquor from clams, salt and pepper, and flour enough for thin batter. Fry in hot fat.

Peach Custard Pie—One can peaches, two eggs, one tablespoon flour, sugar, one pint milk, with paste. Cover with sliced peaches and sprinkle well with sugar.

Chicken Sandwiches—One quart milk, one-fourth pound grated cheese, one-half cupful onion juice, one teaspoonful salt, red pepper, one tablespoonful flour, one tablespoonful butter, yolks of two eggs, baked bread. Put milk into double boiler, add cheese, onion juice, salt and pepper. Blend butter with milk and add to cheese mixture. Stir until rather thick. Beat up yolks of eggs, add to them four tablespoonfuls of the soup and pour into tureen. Put also in tureen two or three cubes of toasted bread. Pour over the soup and serve immediately.

Put charcoal in bottom of pots for plants which are liable to become rooted, especially ferns.

THE TABLE.

Oyster Shortcake—Make rich biscuit dough, place in two shallow tins and bake in quick oven fifteen minutes. Cream one pint of oysters. Pour half the oysters over one crust, place other crust on top and pour over rest of oysters. Serve at once.

Pineapple Snowballs—One-third box gelatine, one cup cold water, boiling water, three eggs, sugar, one lemon, salt, one tablespoon vanilla, one cup chopped pineapple (sweetened and reduced to a pulp), coloring, one-third pint cream. Moisten gelatine with cold water and soak one hour. When soft, add one pint boiling water and strain onto a platter. When cool break in whites of eggs and beat until it begins to stiffen. Add sugar to taste, juice of lemon, pinch of salt, vanilla, pineapple. Beat well. Mold in small cups. Put on ice. Serve in a nest of whipped cream colored with berry juice or any coloring desired.

Stuffed Celery—Press into the concave side of fresh, crisp celery stalks a filling made of cream cheese, and chopped nuts. A stalk of the vegetable served on the bread and butter plate, thus eliminating one plate per person, an item to be considered where the table is crowded, or there is no maid.

Inexpensive Fruit Cake—One pound raisins, four cups flour, one cup shortening, two cups sugar, one grated nutmeg, one cup warm water, one teaspoon soda, one tablespoon vinegar, candied lemon peel, one egg, a little salt; mix as ordinary cake; cover with white icing; makes a large cake.

Breaded Pork Chops—Have chops cut thicker than usual; cut flank and tenderloin from bone and shewer to remaining chop, pressing into good shape; sprinkle with salt and pepper; put in frying pan and sprinkle top of each with break crumbs (dried); pour in boiling water to one-half the depth of chops; cover closely and bake in a slow oven one and one-half hours; remove cover, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake until crumbs are brown; arrange on hot plate, garnish with celery tips; serve with tomato-celery sauce.

Tomato-Celery Sauce—Finely chop one onion, one green pepper and one large bunch of celery; mix and add two and one-half cups of water and tomatoes (from which the liquid has been drained), one and one-half teaspoons salt, two tablespoons allspice vinegar, and two-thirds cupful of vinegar; let simmer one and one-half hours.

Julienne Soup—Shred two onions and fry brown in a half spoon of butter, add a little mace, salt and pepper, then a plentiful of so of stock, rub a tablespoonful of butter with the onions; strain through a fine sieve, then add more stock as desired; cut turnips, carrots and celery in fillets; add a few green peas; tender in a little water, and add both water and vegetables to the soup. BURIED ALIVE.

Do you ever feel buried alive? Do you ever feel as if you were crushed and suffocated and held down by a routine of little monotonous duties or pleasures that are well enough in themselves but that don't seem to be getting you anywhere?

Every once in awhile I get a letter from some letter friend who is evidently suffering from the "buried alive" feeling (though she doesn't call it that), and who asks me what to do for it.

"I seem to have stopped growing," one friend says.

"I don't seem to be getting anywhere," is the plaint of another.

"I'm in a rut," says a third.

I suspect this is a state of mind in which all but those intensely alive people who are always growing and developing and those half-alive people who are too well satisfied with themselves to notice that they aren't growing, sometimes get.

It's a good thing to feel buried alive. Of course it's a painful sensation, but it's one of those pains that are growth pains of character. They show your soul is still alive. Better be buried alive (when you can get out by making the effort) than to be dead.

How to get out? Well, there's lots of ways.

Get Out and Meet New People. Exert yourself to meet some new people. Or refurbish some of those worn-out old friendships that you've let get dull and tarnished.

WHY FAMOUS PASTRY COOKS USE K C BAKING POWDER

The patrons of our first class hotels and restaurants are exacting—they demand the best. Women go where the pastry and cakes are noted for their excellence. Men are attracted by hot bread and biscuits—when fresh and moist and light.

The pastry cook with a reputation uses K C Baking Powder because he knows that results are certain; every time everything is as good as his best.

Then, too, with K C Baking Powder he can mix the various kinds of batter before the rush of the meal begins and bake as needed so that every order goes to the table fresh and hot, yet the last he bakes are just as good as the first.

The reasons behind these reasons is that K C is really a blend of two baking powders. One commences to give off leavening gas as soon as moistened. The other requires both moisture and heat to make it active. Dough or batter will remain in a partially leavened condition for hours, and when put in the oven, will come up as light as if mixed a moment before.

For cookies, pancakes, doughnuts and the like, which cannot all be baked at once, K C is indispensable. For all baking the double raise makes doubly certain.

Follow the example of the professional cook and your baking will be equal to his.

JOE
THE BOOK FARMER
MAKING GOOD
ON THE LAND
By GARRARD HARRIS

"I'd be mighty glad if you would give me a list of the books I ought to have," said Joe to the state commissioner when the meeting adjourned.

"All right, son; here's a list I had prepared. I'll request the department at Washington to send you their bulletins on the subjects of corn and cotton growing and truck farming, and what ever the government issues is an authority you can count on."

"Here, just duplicate that order for me, will you? I'm a bit too old to join the boys' club, but I'm joining by proxy. Joe is representing himself and me, too," laughed Mr. Somerville. "I'm really very much interested."

As Joe and Mr. Somerville went down the street the merchant stepped into a bookstore.

"Let's go in here and get started. I see the first thing on the list is a book for a beginner. That sounds sensible. Like it was a start from the bottom. We'll get two copies. You take yours home, and I'll study mine here."

"Can't start any too soon for me," answered Joe.

"Well, here's the books. Now you come to town next Saturday and spend the day with me, and we'll compare notes on what we've read. When you go home have your father point out the four acres we are going to cultivate. Don't matter whether it is poor or not."

"I'd rather he'd give us the poorest, meanest land there is on the place. I don't want him coming around afterward saying we had any advantage on the land," said Joe.

"That's right; the poorer the land the bigger our demonstration will be. Get it laid off, and anything that suggests itself to you, why, just go ahead and do it. I'm going to give you a check book, and when you need to spend any money write out a check for it and sign it 'Weston & Somerville.' I will instruct the bank to pay it."

"All right, sir, but I am not going to spend anything I can possibly help."

"Now, let me tell you something right here; don't ever be afraid to spend money if it is going to pay you to do so. If you can see where a dollar brings a return spend it quick. The thing to do is to spend wisely—that is investment."

"Well, I think the first thing I want, then, is enough hog wire fencing for those four acres. Seems to me I've never done anything much except chase hogs out of our fields."

"You are starting right, Joe. That's good sense. I'll send the wire out Thursday and a man to stretch it and put it up. You get the posts ready."

"All right, sir."

"And after you get the fence up go ahead now and use your judgment as to what next to do, from what you get out of the book. Well, here's my bug-gy. The driver will take you home. Good night, partner!"

He shook hands cordially and vanished into the store. Joe, his precious book held tightly in his lap, was soon whirling home behind the Somerville trotter and made up his mind that some day he was going to have a horse and buggy exactly like that when he got to making money farming.

CHAPTER II.

Joe Begins Experimenting.

THE next day was Sunday. Tom Weston was red eyed and surly from the effects of the liquor he had drunk the night before with Jim Sullivan and moped about the house, snarling and snapping at his wife and little Annie and Joe.

As soon as breakfast was finished Joe took his precious volume about agriculture and slipped off to a sheltered nook behind the barn. He pored over it until dinner time; then he closed his eyes and reviewed in his mind the essential points of what he had read.

First of all, that plants must have food, just as human being do; that lack of enough food or proper food made puny plants, just as it does with people; that the principal source of food for plants is the humus or decaying vegetable matter in the soil. From this largely comes the nitrogen, the phosphoric acid, the potash and other essentials to plant life, absorbed through the thousands of tiny roots of the growing plant above.

Also, he learned that the soil becomes barren and exhausted and devoid of these essentials with continued cultivation; that the crop takes these necessary things from the soil year by year, and something must be put back into the land or it will become sterile.

"The wise provisions of nature are seen," said the book, "in the annual renewal of the soil. The grass, weeds, trees, shrubs, all take from the soil in the summer, but they pay back the debt with interest in autumn, when the grass dies and the leaves fall to the ground. They are beaten into the soil by the winter rains and by the next summer have decayed and have given more to the land than the plants that bore them have taken away."

"And I never knew before," said Joe to himself, "what makes newly cleared ground so rich and give such large crops. Of course it is the humus from the leaves that have been dropping all the years."

After dinner he began to devour the book again. By dusk he knew that, in order to get the largest amount of plant food to the plants to fatten them, as it were, a deep plowing or breaking and loosening of the soil was essential until it was light and mellow. This allowed the tiny rootlets, each with hundreds of minute hungry mouths, to have a wider range in search of the life giving juices in the soil and thereby furnish the strength to make larger, more virile plants. The steeper the plants the more fruit, the better and larger fruit they made as a reward to the planter for this care.

"Daddy," said Joe, Monday morning, "please come on and let's pick out the four acres Mr. Somerville and me are going to work."

"All right. I'll give you part of that field across from the oak grove. It's so blame poor it won't sprout peas. I want to see what you all are going to do with that."

"Come on down, then. Let's lay it off. I know how poor it is, and the sooner something is done to it the better."

A tape line was secured, and the plot of four acres, two of the acres abutting on the road, was marked with stakes. It was poor land, distressingly poor, as the stunted dead grass and scantily nourished weeds attested. It was part of an old field that had been cultivated for sixty years.

"I don't guess you'll do much with that," announced Mr. Weston, with a triumphant grin.

"It's pretty bad, but we'll do the best we can," said Joe. "I don't reckon you've got any objection to my cutting enough locust wood posts from the thicket back of the hill to fence this?"

"Not if you trim the tops and limbs for firewood and have it hauled up to the house."

"All right, sir."

Just then old Uncle Jeff Washington and his boy, Abe Lincoln Washington,

Joe Returned From the Barn With Four Large Oak Sacks.

came shuffling down the road, both of them with their hands in their pockets.

"Want a job, Uncle Jeff?" inquired Joe.

"Who? Me?"

"No, you. You heard what I said."

"Well, suh, hit sorter 'pan's on what de job is."

"Getting out some locust fenceposts."

"Who fer?"

"They are 'fer' the king of Slam; but, as a matter of fact, I am having the work done, if that's any consolation to you."

"Yasser, I reckon I'll take de job nex' week."

"You'll take it now or not at all?"

"Well, ef hit's er hurry job, den I reckon I'll batter take hit now. I wicks fer er dollar en two bits er day en mer riddles."

"Not for me. I've seen you work. You kill too much time. I will pay you 5 cents a post, and you must trim the branches and tops for firewood and furnish your own rations."

"Wh-who gwine pay fer all dis?" Joe pulled his checkbook from his inside pocket.

"When I write a check the Farmers' bank will pay it. You'll get your money all right."

"Dat's all I wanta know. Lead me ter den locuses."

"Hold on a minute. Do you want to hire Link here out for a few days?"

"What doin'?"

"Helping me. I'll give you 40 cents a day for him and give him his dinner. It isn't any harder work than I am going to do."

"Yasser, Mr. Joe, I rents 'im ter you. Link, you do what he tells you, en ef you don't do hit I gwine ter take de hide offen you. Does you heah me, boy?"

"Yasser, I heahs you." Abe Lincoln's glance at his parent was sad and reproachful. Abe was fat and lazy and hated to work.

"All right," said Joe. "Uncle Jeff, go get your ax and start in on that locust thicket. You know where it is. Want the posts eight feet long."

Uncle Jeff ambled down the road toward his cabin. Link, a big, overgrown boy two years older than Joe, stood awkwardly waiting for orders.

"Come on, Link," said Joe, walking into the grove of oak trees, leaving his father in the road eyeing him curiously. Mr. Weston was dying to know what Joe was going to do next, but would not ask.

In the oak grove the dry leaves lay more than a foot deep. Joe took his knife, cut a good sized bundle of young sprouts and tied them together, making a stiff broom. With this he began to sweep leaves, and it worked admirably.

"Link, you take this broom and sweep these leaves in piles. Make one about every thirty feet. I'll be back shortly."

Leaving Link at work, Joe hustled past his father and soon returned from the barn with four large oak sacks. Link had several good sized piles of leaves ready. Joe held two sacks and made Link cram them full of the dry leaves, and, instructing him to fill the other two, Joe swung the full sacks upon his shoulders, marched across the road and emptied them on his four acres; then back and securing the two Link had filled, he emptied them, the others meanwhile in turn having been loaded.

Mr. Weston grinned derisively. Joe was really too busy to notice him. Until noon the boys worked like beavers, and by that time a third of an acre had been covered with leaves over a foot deep. Bright and early next morning they resumed work after having put in a steady afternoon, and by the time dinner was ready one acre had been covered. Another day covered another acre and cleaned up about all the leaves in the grove.

That night Mr. Weston undertook to have some fun at Joe's expense.

"Goin' to tote leaves from that next grove?" he inquired. The next grove was nearly a mile away.

"No, too far—won't pay." This common sense view stumped him for awhile.

"Daddy, I'll give you 10 cents a load for what fertilizer there is in the barnyard."

"Ain't none there—not over a load or so. You can have it for that price if you get it up." Mr. Weston had never thought of it as having any value at all and never collected it or used it on crops.

Next morning Joe and Link, each with a hoe, began scraping the cow lot and barn floor, going down after the thick layer of well rotted manure forming material that had accumulated for several years and which Mr. Weston had placed no value on whatever. Eleven two horse wagon loads were secured. Joe borrowed his father's wagon and scattered the entire lot on the acre he proposed to plant corn upon.

"That's my corn acre, Link," he explained. "I'm going to try to grow some corn here like it ought to be. What's the most corn you and Uncle Jeff ever made to the acre?"

"I dunno 'sactly, but hit wuz in de neighborhood of fifteen bushels."

Joe bought eight more loads of barnyard fertilizer from a neighbor at 20 cents a load, delivered, and put that on his cotton acre.

Then he made an arrangement with another neighbor who had a plow suitable for deep breaking and stipulated that four mules were to be attached to it.

"What's the name of peace you want that fer? Yer goin' ter tear the bottom plumb outter this field. Goin' ter plow plumb down ter Obiny?" inquired the farmer.

"Yes, I'm going to tear the bottom out. I want that land broke fourteen inches deep, cross broke and then harrowed."

"All right; you're the doctor on that. I'll charge you $8."

"That's a trade; hitch up. I want to get it broken as soon as possible."

The plowman was greatly astonished at the amount of leaves on the two acres and the amount of fertilizer spread. Then he sank the heavy plow to the shank on the outer edge of the measured lot; the four mules strained, and a great heavy ribbon of dirt rolled over from the plow as it moved forward. Eight inches below the surface the ground was sterile and poor. Below that depth it was fairly good. This was the dirt the light one horse plows could never reach.

The great turning plow reversed things. The poor dirt was thrown to the bottom, and the comparatively good soil was by the operation brought to the top. The leaves and fertilizer were covered and well mixed in.

Then a crosswise plowing at the same depth, to break up the packed soil and immense hard fakes, and a harrowing to further pulverize it, and Joe wrote his first check. The man looked at the signature Weston & Somerville as though he thought Joe had gone entirely crazy.

"What's all this here foolishness?" he asked, holding the check gingerly.

"You present that at the bank, and if they don't pay it Mr. Somerville will. He's my partner," announced Joe proudly.

"Well, I'm goin' to town now an' see about it, an' if it ain't paid there's goin' to be trouble," said the man truculently.

"Oh, don't get excited about it. Wait until it isn't paid before you start any thing."

"I'm goin' right now," repeated the man.

"All right; I'll just go with you. I want to get some seed, and I'll get you to haul them out for me," said Joe, as he climbed into the wagon.

IF BACK HURTS USE
SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if Kidneys Feel Like Lead or Bladder Bothers You—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally. If we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Perfection—The False and the True

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL,
Superintendent of Men, Moody Bible
Institute of Chicago

TEXT—Not as though I had already attained, either were I ready; perfect. Let us therefore as many as be perfect be thus minded.—Phil. 3:12, 15.

This text makes it clear that there is a sense in which Christians can be perfect and another sense in which they may be perfect.

The apostle states clearly that he has not yet attained, neither is he already perfect, or as the Revised Version reads, "made perfect." The verse preceding speaks of the resurrection of the dead, so that his disavowal evidently has to do with the perfection which will come in the future.

It may seem to some unnecessary that a man should disavow this final perfection since he is evidently not yet raised from the dead; but the human mind is capable of very strange things, and this same apostle Paul speaks of some in his day who taught that the resurrection is past already. On some such basis, it seems, that teachers arose who declared that even now we may reach the perfection which belongs to the resurrection state. The apostle is clearly against such a doctrine.

Bishop Moule, one of the most saintly men the modern church has produced, in commenting upon this passage says: "As far as my own observation goes, such views (i. e. of perfection) are not uncommonly attended, in those who hold them, by a certain oblivion to personal shortcomings and inconsistencies; by an obscuration of consciousness, and of conscience, more or less marked, towards the sinfulness of ordinary, everyday violations of the law of holiness in respect of meekness, humbleness of mind, long suffering, sympathy, and other quiet graces."

Indeed, the saints of all the ages unite with Paul in declaring that they are not already perfect. The apostle after suffering many things for Christ's sake so that he bore in his body the marks of the Lord Jesus, writes of himself as "chief of sinners." John Bunyan although he spent twelve years in Bedford jail for his Lord, calls his life story "Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners." When John Wesley thought he was dying, he reviewed his labors of sixty years, but could find no peg upon which to hang any hope of salvation; he could only repeat the sentiment of the hymn,

I the chief of sinners am,
But Jesus died for me.

The same spirit was manifested by Charles Spurgeon, who said during the serious illness, that if he got well he would have many things to preach, but just at that time four words were enough for him, "Jesus died for me." Dr. A. J. Gordon was a man of such saintly character that his very face gave evidence of the indwelling light.

But the other portion of our text speaks of a sense in which we may be perfect. The context shows that the apostle is using the figure of a runner in a race. He has not yet attained the prize, but forgetting the things which are behind and reaching forth unto those which are before, he presses toward the mark. It is this attitude to which the word "perfect" is applied. The man has laid aside the weights and the easily besetting sin; he is not content with what he has attained, but forgetting that which is behind, he presses with neck stretched forth and every muscle strained, to the goal. It will be seen at once that this sort of perfection is very imperfect and is in no sense a finality. It only prepares us to be made perfect in the day of Christ's coming. Nevertheless we are bound by the grace of Christ to fulfill this ideal and not to put him to shame.

Two matters are involved in the exhortation to be "thus minded." First of all if we feel like the apostle, we will have the lowly estimate of ourselves of which we have spoken, the feeling that we have not attained. Very far from Christian perfection is pride; on the contrary, humility is its very essence. Again, if we are perfect in the sense of which the apostle speaks, we will emulate him in pressing forward for the prize of final glory. This is the very opposite of complacency as to our attainment. It is said that Thordvaldson once wept because he was satisfied with a statue he had made. "Alas," he said, "I shall never improve now, for I have reached my ideal." How ought they to be aroused who, because they have come to Christ and are living with some consistency, are satisfied! Life manifests itself by growth and he who is not growing may well examine himself to see whether he be in the faith. How good it is that the apostle goes on to assure us that "if in anything ye be otherwise minded, God will reveal even this unto you." May he give us grace to walk in this light!

Motto for this week: "The volume independently of its divine origin contains more sublimity, a purer morality, more important history, finer strains, both of poetry and of eloquence than could be collected within the same compass from all the books that were ever composed."—William Jones, 1746-1798.

Fourth Quarter. Lesson IX. Amos 5:1-15. November 26, 1915. Amos the Fearless Prophet. (The Story.)

It is to be regretted that the words minor, or less, have been used to designate the twelve prophets with whose writings the Old Testament is filled. These minifying terms may perhaps in part account for their too general neglect. Reference is not to the contents, but to the comparative brevity. From a literary, doctrinal, or spiritual standpoint the writings are to be admired. Amos is the peer of any of the college prophets. He is of lowly origin. He has been called the "peasant prophet." He lived among the rough hills of Judea, near the edge of the great desert. He was untrained in the schools. He says of himself: "No prophet I, no prophet's disciple I." He calls himself one of the herdsmen of Bekeon. Part of his rustic occupation was to gather the fruit of the sycamore. To find a market for his fruit and flocks he must needs go into the kingdom of Israel. There he observed the degeneracy of the people. On his return, and in the solitude of the wilderness, he had opportunity to meditate upon what he had seen. His heart was stirred. He must needs rebuke the people. It was too to him if he did not. In his own strong language he said, "The Lord look me as he followed the flock, and the Lord unto me as he followed the flock." It is the surprise of the critic that from such an unlikely source should come an elaborate and exalted work should come. Amos has been compared to Isaiah. It is said that the freshness and appropriateness of this imagery entitles him to as high a place in the history of literature as in that of theistic religion. The rhetorical power of his words, his wealth and depth of thought, his vigor and his bold antithesis, his poetical roll rising into actual rhythm. Some one has pictured the thunderstorm, rolling over all the surrounding kingdoms, touching Judah and finally settling down upon Israel. This particular period in the history of the kingdom of Israel has been called its "dark summer," because of its gloom, and also the nearness of the winter of its desolation. The ancient limits of the kingdom and all its splendor, lost under former kings were regained under Jeroboam II. Great wealth was suddenly poured into the coffers of the princes. It was the wealth of conquest, the wealth of war, the wealth of the peaceful arts of commerce and agriculture. With riches gained in such manner came the temptation to oppression and luxury. The poor were oppressed. The ordinances of religion thought burdensome (8, 9), and idleness, luxury, and extravagance were general (3, 15). You will search in vain the more graphic description of a self-indulgent people than Amos gives. They enthroned violence immediately, but consider the day of reckoning as indefinitely postponed. They stretch themselves upon their couches beside their banquets, laden with every delicacy. They use for an ignoble purpose the instruments which were intended for the worship of God. Ordained wine cups do not suffice; they drink from canalicus bowls. They use the finest of oils in their boudoirs. How could such sensuality perceive much less to be gained by the moral have made of their country! "They are not grieved for the affliction of Joseph." Now the prophet speaks their doom. The banquet before which they lounge shall suddenly be swept away before they can partake of it. Are they first in luxury—still be first in captivity. The day of retribution is full, so the Lord says by the lips of his prophet, "I abhor the excellency of Jacob and hate his palaces. Therefore will I deliver up the city with all that is therein."

The Teacher's Lantern. Amos is thought to have been the first to reduce his prophecies to writing. In the solitude of Tekoa he addressed his words to the task. Here he probably composed the "peasant's epilogue." Traces of the original, oral delivery, however, show themselves in spite of the elaborate literary finish which has been made of the abrupt, short clauses. One of Webster's brothers once said, jestingly, "They had to send Daniel to school to make him as smart as the rest of us were naturally." Amos did not need even the school of prophets. Nature and humanity were his university. He was master of arts in both. A popular magazine, in a recent issue, had a symposium on "If Lincoln Had Gone to College." It was suggested that he might have been less melancholy if he had the opportunities of recreation and diversion which would have opened to him. But the consensus was that they might also have been a dangerous abatement of native force and originality. Exceptions which prove the rule, that school is the best place for the average boy. Twenty-six hundred years have passed since Amos reduced his sayings to writing. But the principles which underlie his splendid book are philosophical and fundamental. They are universally and perpetually applicable. Among them will destroy only peace. Righteousness only will exalt. Amos showed that the overflowing material wealth of Israel was only the seed of its ruin. Its doom was a seal sixty years away. They thought they stood at the very instant of falling. The accepted idea of a prophet is too mechanical. One called to this office as a messenger by the Divine Spirit that his personal will and judgment are practically supplanted. He is moved like an automaton. A verse in St. James' Epistle turns a strong light upon the prophetic office and corrects one misapprehension. "Elijah was a man of like nature as we are." So every prophet is in and out of his special function is a perfectly normal character. No prophet must be taken out of the category of the normal. St. James affirms that the prophet's feelings and emotions are just such as ours would be under similar circumstances.

Nov. 26, 1915. Luke 14:15-24. HOME MISSION WORK TO BE DONE IN OUR COMMUNITY. The church can no longer trade up its dignity, social prestige, and dignity. The church cannot be turned by the water that is past. Ecclesiastical must prove a present-day agent for meeting present-day needs or a discard of sentiment even save it from the discard. If the church is true to the spirit and example of the Master it will efficiently meet the needs of the whole man and of all men. It has resources enough to spare. The potential, however, must be made the actual.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

Grandma Kept Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick With a Mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand-mother's treatment, and is still as good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.
